"Indians on Review" that's our theme and it's inclusive enough to take in all the personal achievements and events of importance in the scholastic year of 1964-65. The "looking back" leaves us very proud because it's been a most happy and successful year.

Paging through our academic section reminds us of all the hours that were spent in class—some exciting and provocative, others utterly boring; but for the most part a mixture of both. We remember the hours spent at home getting ready for class, and also—we must admit—the hours wasted and honest demands of our teachers frustrated with less than the best effort. That in an overall sense St. Joseph's succeeded as a teaching institute, we look to our five National Merit Scholarship semi-finalists.

Our clubs and other extra-curricular activities were profitable fun. We here on the HI-WAY staff learned what a real sense of dedication and pride meant.

In athletics—ah, there's where, especially in football, we really distinguished ourselves in the eyes of our city and our state. Our team grabbed the No. 1 spot at the first polling in September of coaches and sports writers and kept it ten straight weeks—STATE CHAMPIONS!

In an overall sense 1964-65 has seen St. Joseph's make a giant stride in the esteem of South Benders, in every way a school should be esteemed.

Under a bower of "Whispering Willows", the Class of '65 danced to the melodies of Eddie Knight's orchestra. Murals of southern majesty enhanced the walls of the Pick-Oliver Hotel. A Southern garden setting prevailed as Cynthia Fitzgerald and James Courtier reigned as queen and king. The court consisted of Jacqueline Beyer and David Demeter, Karyn Flary and Michael Van Leare, Cynthia Rousseve and Bruce Hardman, and Cynthia de Beats and Michael Seall.

Stefan Center at Notre Dame had an open date and St. Joseph's snapped it up for its winter semi, the "Snowball".

In a wintry atmosphere of white fur trees and a frosty "wishing pool", two-hundred couples danced to the music of "The Lettermen".

A snow-covered throne, reached by a long inclined walkway was the attractive scene of the crowning of John Wazak and Nancy Van Houtdrevre as King and Queen of the ball.

Our thanks are due to chairmen Dave Smith and Judy Julies and to the Senior Class Moderators Brother Daniel Kane and Sister John Joseph.

A myriad moods and attitudes are illustrated by part of the happy "Snowball" crowd.

Capacity Crowds Attend Drama Club Production

St. Joseph Drama Club had its first production. Under the able leadership of Mr. Joseph Adams, the club presented "Good News", a musical comedy that was a 1945-46 production.

The production was staged in the Francis J. Kennedy Auditorium, South Berkeley, a new extension. The night before last. It was the first time a St. Joe Drama Club has done a musical comedy in an outside theater, and it was the first time in Catholic school has done a musical stage.

"Good News" principal leads were Bob Fitzpatrick, Mike Coppola, Jim Watters, Mike Walsh, Carlo Strain, Marco Gross, Patricia DeLong, Linda Parsons, Marlene Vergara, and Alan Niederhiser.

Brother Daniel Kane was vocal director. Mr. James Roth directed the production. Mrs. Cigaretta Gony had charge of choreography.

"The Best Things in Life Are Free", theme song for lovers in "Good News", is sung here by Bob Fitzpatrick and Pat Dempsey.

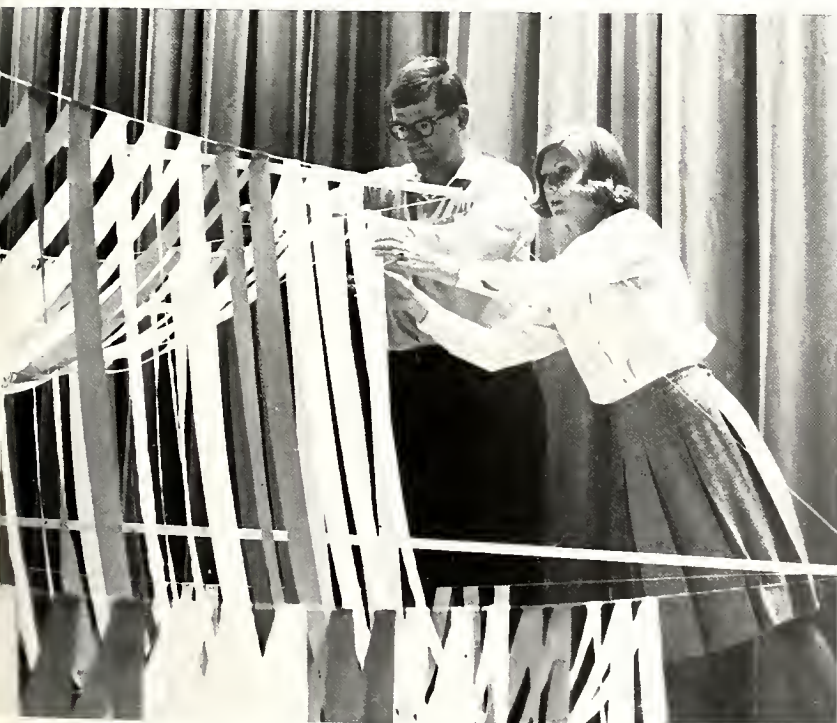

Informal Dances Dot Social Calendar

Our school social calendar was dotted with informal dances. It seemed that every class and club had a chance to sponsor a sock-hop. Usually they spiced a Friday night or a pre-holiday night. Ordinarily dances would run from 8:00 to 11:00. Those after basketball would last a half-hour longer.

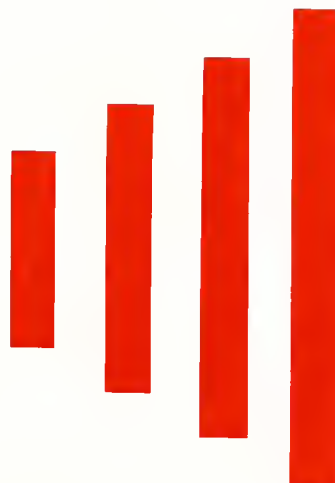

There were so many dances that it was difficult to come up with a new title each time. Some titles were downright frivolous; for example "Three Days Before Columbus Day" and "The Snowball Ball". Others showed a bit more imagination: "Snowman Shuffle", "The Mad Hatter", and "Happiness is . . ."

Dances are a sure way to relax after a vigorous week of studies. They were taken full advantage of at St. Joe.

ACADEMICS*

The following pages are a review of our classes, the real heart of St. Joseph's. The curriculum is balanced with subjects grouped in college preparatory, business, and practical courses.

Our teachers are for the most part excellent and the classes they present provocative. Extensive use is made of modern teaching methods and the latest audio-visual aids.

Attesting to the validity of our academics is that St. Joseph's produced five merit Scholarship finalists.

Religion Cites Ecclesiastical Renewal

Student life at St. Joseph's centers around religion. Each class begins with a prayer, and students often make visits to the chapel before homeroom and between classes. Numerous Masses were offered throughout the school year, giving the students added opportunity to receive the Blessed Sacrament and observe the latest changes in the liturgy, such as the two-page song book during the offertory and communion by members of the choral group.

Father Kline, head of the religion department, has started "departmental meetings" for religion teacher. The purpose is to attempt to standardize the method of religion instruction.

Seniors are taught apologetics, while juniors learn moral law and the commandments. Sophomores are presented church history, and freshmen learn of the Church and Christ.

Celebrant Father John Vrabely distributes Holy Communion.

Acting as leader, Mary Pajakowski leads a panel discussion with Mary Ann Schlorch, Cathy Pedtke, and Linda Idlingworth in Sr. Dominic's freshman religion class.

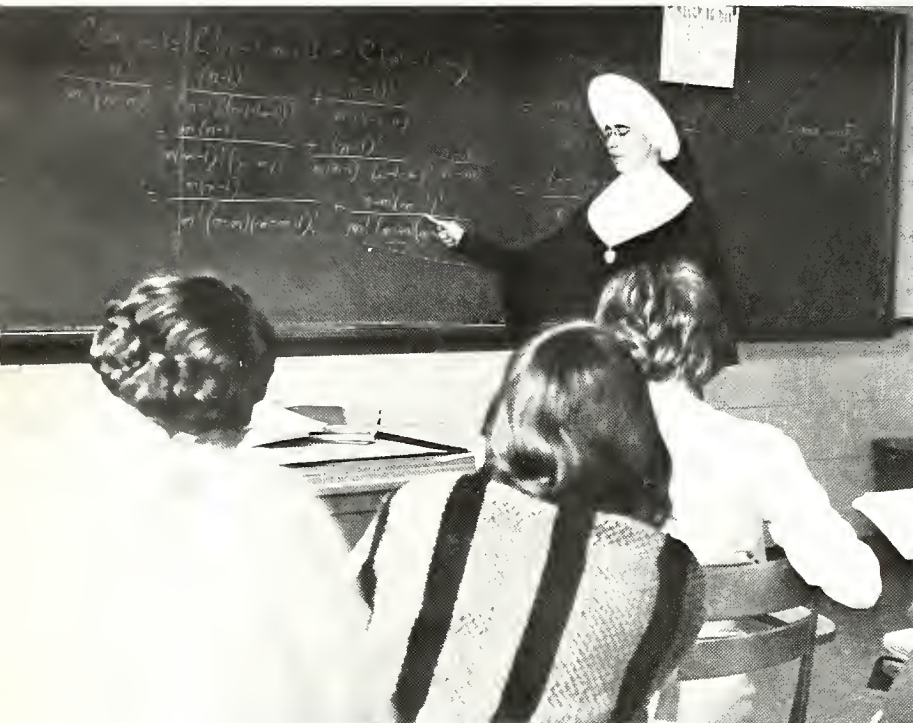

Gesturing to stress a point, Brother Thomas Matthes talks to his Sophomore Religion class.

Psalm-singing is directed by Sister Dominic in her religion class.

Newly ordained Father Stanley Szarwark, graduate of the class of '57, receives ablution from servers Tom Gavin and Pat Hannan.

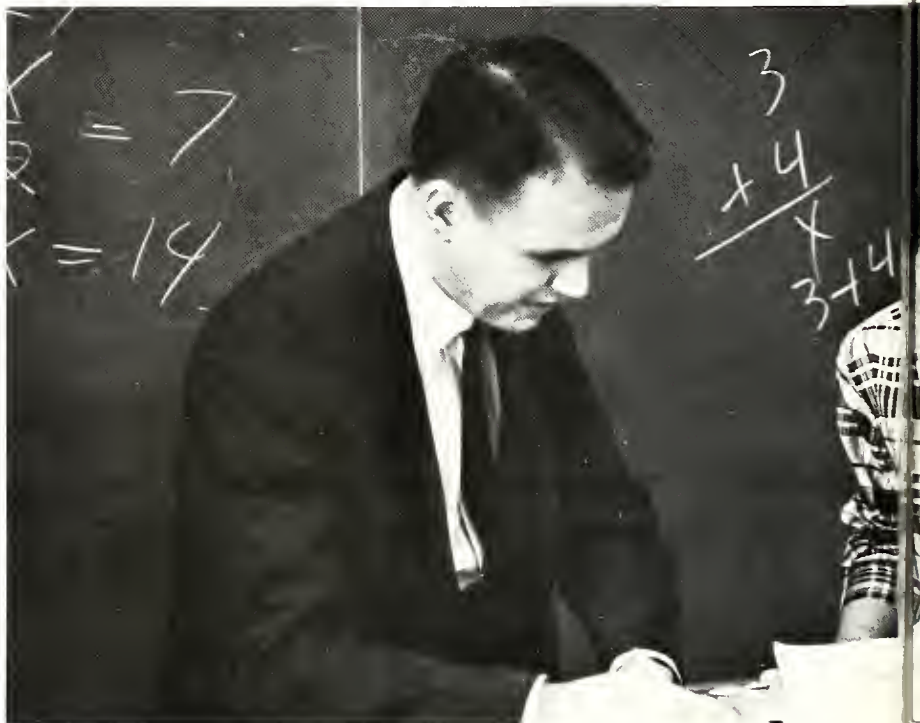

In Senior Math Sister Paul Mary works out an algebraic problem on the board.

In his favorite corner and with that famous long eraser handy, Brother Rosaire evaluates an equation in Advanced Algebra.

Algebra teacher Mr. Reith gives personal help to Tim Sullivan.

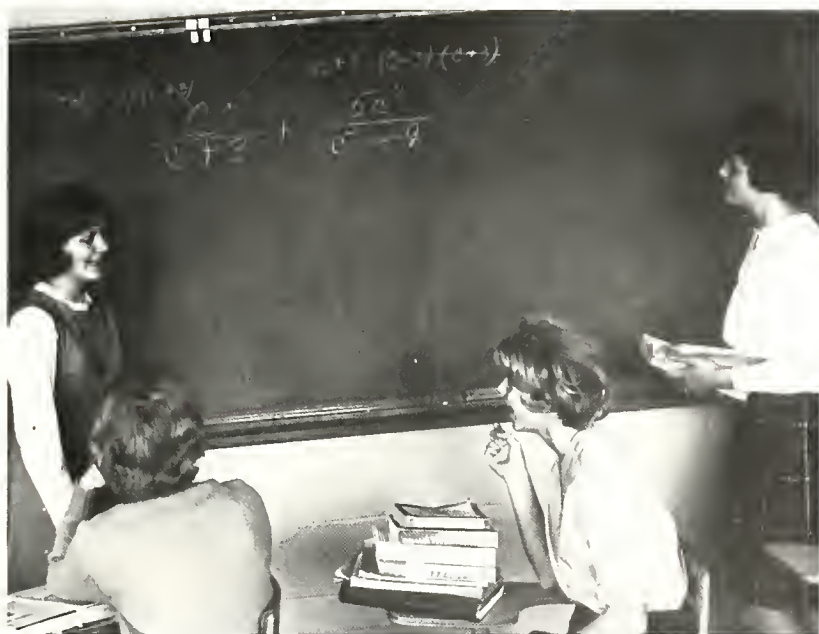

St. Joseph's math department tries to prepare its students to adapt to a scientifically-orientated society. The increasing mathematical demands, our instructors have found, are best met by "modern math".

To understand what "modern math" means we interviewed two teachers. Sister Paul Mary teaches from both a paperback and a hardback text. She states that modern math books stress the structure and fundamentals of math. As taught in the girl's department, students begin solving problems through reason, deriving from the experience principles for further study.

Brother Barry says that modern math is a "revolution" in teaching technique. The new method retains the stress on learning the algebraic laws and proofs. Even though the boys texts still concentrate on traditional math, the new system is recognized for its worth.

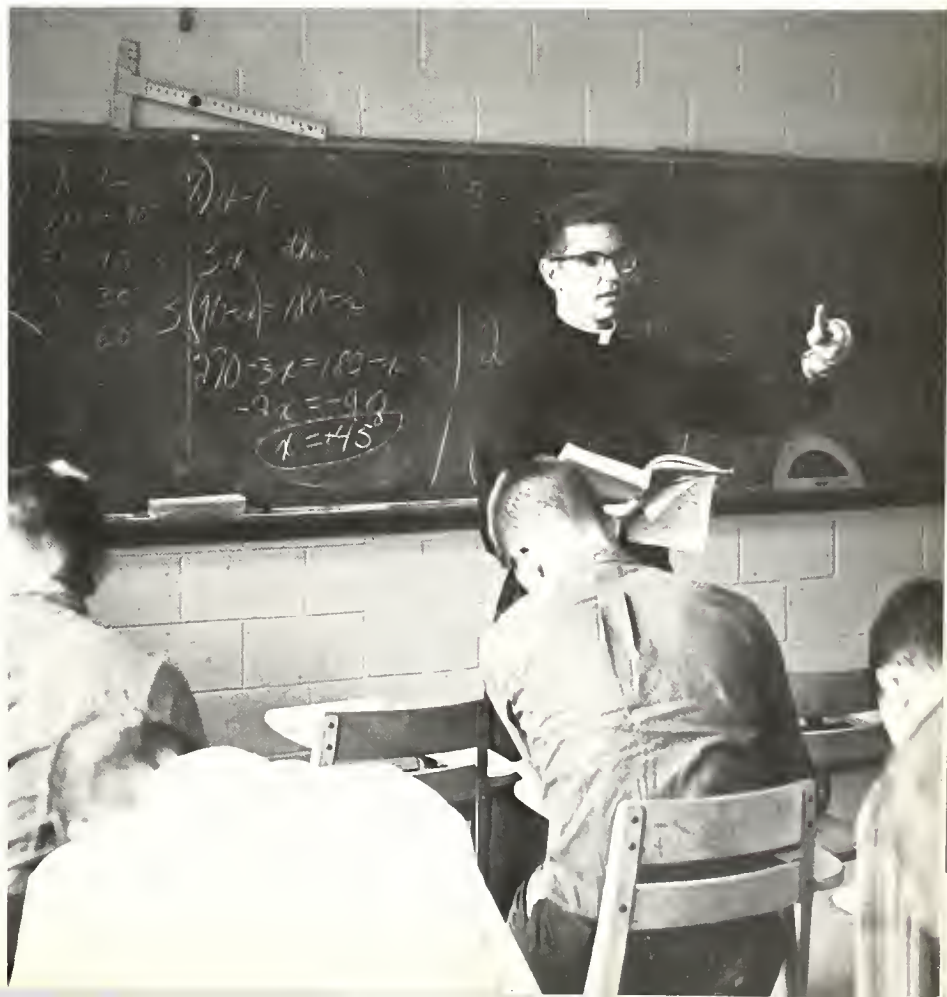

A great variety of math is offered at St. Joseph's: algebra, geometry, Advanced Algebra, and trigonometry.

Bearded painter Mr. David Sanders of Notre Dame lectures the St. Joe Fine Arts Club on new changes in painting techniques.

Under the direction of Brother Daniel Kane, the chorus acts as a choir during a dialogue Mass.

Debate Captain Dennis Egan illustrates the art of speech making.

Aesthetic self-expression and cultural appreciation are the goals of many St. Joseph's clubs and organizations.

Opportunities to attend plays, concerts, and art exhibits, along with the privilege of displaying their own art works in the school showcases, are offered to members of the Fine Arts Club.

Sister Vincent Ferrer's Music and Art Appreciation class and Father Mascotte's Art Course offer academic credit.

Student drama productions, band performances, and the new chorus enable both performers and audience to take active part in cultural affairs.

Writing and public-speaking training in class, along with the debate club, emphasize the need for accurate and persuasive expression.

St. Joseph's art, discussion, folk and church music are entertaining as well as aesthetically appealing.

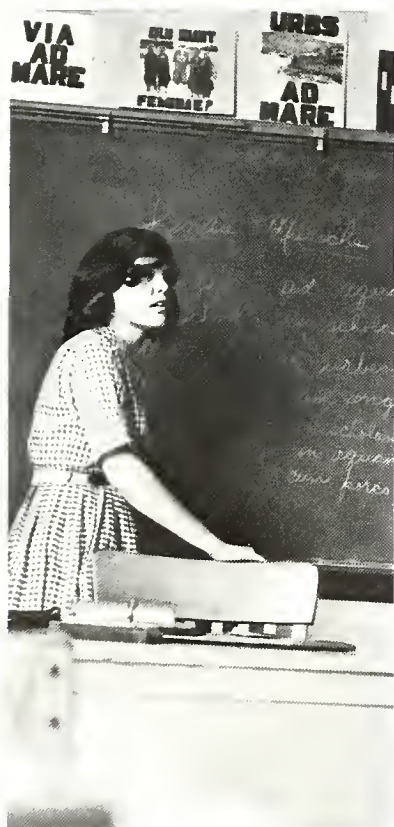

At a Fine Arts Club meeting, Sister Vincent Ferrer uses a tape recorder in discussing the types of art.

Writing, writing, writing—that's the way to learn. Here Kathy Thibideaux and other Latin students put their translations on the board for criticism.

In the field of languages both departments at St. Joseph's offer four years of English. Four years of Latin are available for boys and two years for girls.

As a modern language two years of Spanish are an option with boys and a like two years in French for girls.

St. Joseph's as yet has no language lab, but many of its instructors are trained through summer study in the use of labs. They are ready when labs are available.

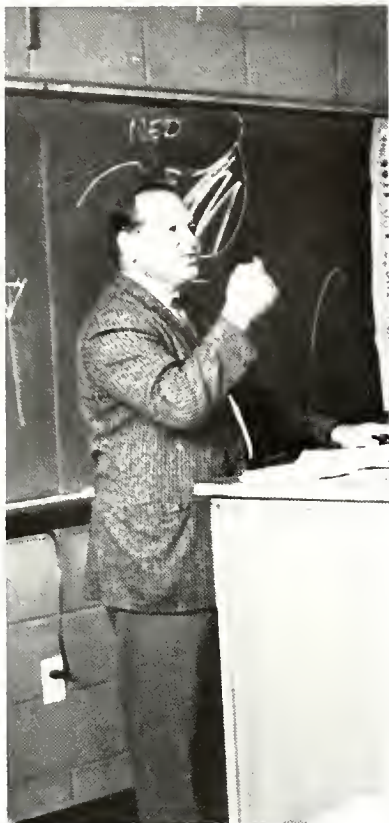

As it turns out, it is left to the individual teacher which method of instruction will be used.

In Spanish Brother Anton uses a direct method, teaching Spanish in Spanish with a heavy stress on films, filmstrips, and tapes. Tapes are used in French and Latin classes to drill verb forms and sentence structure, and dialogue tapes enable the student to achieve greater ease in conversation.

Colonial social customs are the point of discussion in Sister John Joseph's U.S. History.

In Social Studies audio-visual aids have become increasingly popular. Particularly is this true in history and geography. Brother Wilbert, for example, has a regular schedule of films that tie directly to the material in history covered at a particular time. A series of filmstrips on the Spanish conquerors was presented by Mr. De Vlegher in his Latin American History class.

Bulletin boards, tastefully and regularly covered with interesting pictures, charts, and maps, help foster student interest in subject matter.

The range of social studies available is great. In the boys' department U.S. History and Government are required. World History, Economics, Latin American History, and Geography are electives.

The girls' department presents World History to either freshmen or sophomore students. U.S. History, Government, and Sociology follow in the junior and senior years.

Presidential elections in the fall made outside material useful. TIME and NEWSWEEK published articles on current events which were used extensively in Government courses.

Social Studies Interpret the Changing Times

Imbibing a bit of brew from a Science Fair yeast experiment are Tom Gavin, Mary Miller, Kathy Gallagher, and John Slack.

Entries in the 1964 Science Fair, held in April and moderated by Brother Edward Libbers, were categorized into these four: chemistry, biology, math, or physics.

Usually those entries that scored highest in the final judging tied in with personal hobbies. To do really well, a project had to represent a degree of dedication and some real, patient research.

First place in physics went to Ken Susnjara for his exhibits on celestial photography with the Schmidt camera. Joan Probst, exhibiting how the forces of math go together, won first in math. In biology Mike Dunn took the blue ribbon with a project called imposingly, "The Relation of Feeding time to the Radiological Prevention of Regeneration Dugesia."

First place in chemistry went to Marva Zemlyak and Barb Witucki for an exhibit on the effect of insecticides on living organisms.

Concerning his "cloud chamber", Walt Filipek answers a pointed question posed by Margaret Jackson.

Sciences Probe Mysteries of Matter

Using ice to reduce the temperature in an experiment, Mrs. Juanda Bick, biology instructor, indicates the reaction to be expected.

Since Sputnik went into orbit, there has been an international science war on between the United States and Russia. This all-out effort on America's part has affected all levels of education. There is an urgent insistency that has been felt by instructors and students alike. For college-bound students there is a particular urgency.

St. Joseph's has a well-rounded science curriculum that tries to develop every student's potential; however it is intended especially for brighter students.

Students build a basis for further studies by taking the freshman health course; then they take biology, studying organic development through lectures, discussions, and experimentations. The girls' department offers Advanced Biology, where more field trips are taken than usual and students often work independently in small groups.

Chemistry and its optional introduction, Physical Science, enable students to prove facts learned in their own lab experiments. Physics witnesses the transformation of matter and energy with classroom experiments and those done by students outside class.

Manual and Domestic Proficiency Expanded

Practical arts courses are especially prepared for those who will not go to college. The practical arts give solid foundations to many business and domestic fields.

In the boys' department, the student is provided with mechanical drawing as one of his first courses in practical arts. Starting with simple drawings—such as nuts and bolts—students work up to a point where they can reproduce the intricate design of a whole machine.

Shop helps the boy develop his manual skills. This course lets the student make by hand and machine useful objects from a fork and a spoon to a chair or a table.

Whereas the lathe and electric drill are used in the boys' department, the stove and sewing machine are apropos to the girls' department. In Foods and Clothing classes girls learn everything from cooking well-balanced meals to making a dress from a pattern.

Framed by curtain and palms, Father Simmons, awards night speaker, and Brother James Linscott applaud a recipient.

With genuine excitement and joy Susan Bick accepts her award from Father Vrabely.

Accumulated Achievement Honored with Awards

Each academic year at St. Joseph's is concluded with an Awards Night. Students who have distinguished themselves scholastically are, at this time, recognized for their endeavors. In addition to the Scholastic Honor Certificates awarded for academic excellence, awards are presented for exceptional achievement in religion, languages, and industrial arts. Also presented are awards for good citizenship and perfect attendance. Valuable college scholarships are granted by various organizations for outstanding academic success.

Awards Night is closely correlated to graduation ceremonies. Addresses are given by the saluatorians. The ceremonies are traditionally terminated with the Senior Class President presenting the symbolic Tomahawk to the Junior Class President with admonition to carry on in the proud tradition of St. Joseph's.

ACTIVITIES*

Extra curriculars are extremely important, but should be kept in proper perspective. They should either supplement or complement school work, not replace it or become more important.

Certainly a perusal of the '64 HI-WAY will convince anyone that St. Joseph's offers a huge variety of extra-curriculars—fifty-six to be exact! This should offer enough range to appeal to every interest, yet the number of activities constantly grows—and should!

Sally Huck, Karen Leliaert, Jan Loebach, Kathy Makielski, Karen Martin, Virginia Mears, Dixie Mitchell, Marlene Paturalski, Sandy Sobieralski, and Kathy Stephenson.

Band officers are John Cernak, 1st. lieu.; Paul Baranowski, president; John Gohman, 2nd. lieu.; Sally Huck, vice-president; and Ray Hassan, drum major.

Band rehearsal under the direction of Mr. James Reith began early in August with practices four times a week. Precision marching and drill maneuvers were especially stressed.

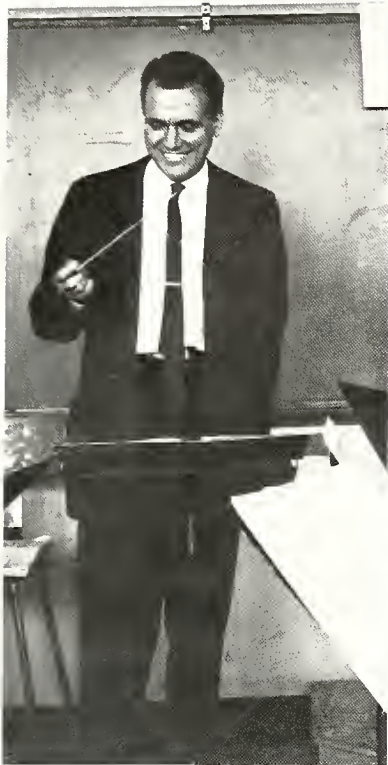

With the beginning of school, the band immediately began capping off its formal preparations for football pre-game and half-time shows.

A new look for the pom-pom girls was snappy blue uniforms to match the dark blue worn by the rest of the band.

The season's musical performances included numbers ranging from popular hits from "South Pacific" to a new football rouser, "Dixie Thunder".

The St. Joseph's band welcomed Senator Hubert Humphrey to South Bend in October, gave a fund-raising dance called "Beggar's Ball", and presented a pops concert for the student body on Oct. 27. Segments of the band played at home basketball games. In the spring another concert was given and the year was completed with participation in the Memorial Day parade.

As he directs his band in practice, Mr. Reith apparently enjoys his own private joke.

Boys Mission Club officers are Ray Malinowski, Tom Straka, Tom Couvreur, and Dave Stark.

Deeper self-knowledge was the goal of the Marian Club. Pamphlets and lectures on the role of woman in all phases of her life led each member to a clearer understanding of the part she must play in the world today.

Weekly collections, fund-raising dances, and stamp drives enabled the Mission Clubs to send money to under-developed countries. They also supplied world missions with hand-rolled bandages and religious articles.

Culture was the concern of the popular new Fine Arts Club. The purpose, the promotion of a better understanding and appreciation of culture, was accomplished by attendance at art exhibits, concerts, plays, and special art shows.

Science Club Inaugurates Co-ed System

Understanding science better and stimulating interest in it were the aims of this year's science clubs. Usually separate organizations, the boys' and girls' clubs united under the leadership of Mr. Baker and Miss Strobel, chemistry teachers.

Movies, discussions, lectures, and experiments absorbed membership interest at regular meetings, while field trips were special treats. Visits to Notre Dame's Lo-bund and Chemical Radiation Labs proved fascinating. Highlights of the club's activities were trips to Niles Laboratory in Elkhart and the Museum of Science and Industries in Chicago.

Lab experiments inspired members to enter projects in the spring science fair.

Combining the two clubs has proven popular. It allowed moderators to pool ideas for meetings; it prevented over-lapping and duplication. It was more economical and—of course—more appealing socially!!

Officers of the Future Doctors Club are Joan Probst, John Barlich, Gregg Larkin.

Gathered around a desk with their moderator Sister Miriam Robert are Future Teachers Club officers Linda Kocsis, Phyllis Pajakowski, Mary Muessel, and Celia Backer.

Three clubs are offered at St. Joe to aid in one's future plans, clubs which will explain and instruct the student in his chosen profession.

The Future Teacher's Club helps junior and senior girls to get an insight into the teaching profession by assisting the instructor, attend the faculty's convention, and work with less fortunate individuals. This latter personal experience is received at St. Peter Claver House for abandoned children.

To interest students for possible medical careers, the Future Doctor's Club toured numerous medical centers and were lectured by guest speakers. Members were led to further an understanding by viewing movies and taking trips to medical schools in Ann Arbor and Chicago.

A new organization, the Health Careers Club, encourages girls to enter fields of medicine without restriction to nursing. Their activities include entertaining hospitalized children and aiding the school nurse.

Debaters Match Wits and Words on Nuclear Control

"Should nuclear weapons be placed under international control?" This was the question proposed to the debate club in St. Joseph's third year of competition under the tutelage of Brother Daniel Bengert.

Twenty debaters, including one girl, Cathie Earley, belonged to the team. Ordinarily principal debate action was carried on by Martin Dooley, Dennis Egan, Tom Gavin, Ken Sullivan, Ron Chandonia, Jim Krzyzewski, Tom Szabo, Roark Nagler, Charles Nagy, and Ed Garvey. Dennis Egan captained the team.

Meetings were held three times a week after school, at which time much effort was exerted in gathering information and polishing debating style. An individual card file for facts and references was popular with members.

In the city St. Joe participated in WSBT radio debates. Trips for observing and participating in debate jamborees were made to Fort Wayne, Hammond, Logansport, Columbia City, Concord, and Culver.

In a practice debate Martin Dooley makes a point for the affirmative.

Composed of representatives from all homerooms, and headed by four elected officers from each class, both the boys' and girls' department, the student senate serves as a "clearing house" for school problems. The main purpose of the senate is to encourage student leadership in school activities, hoping that that leadership quality might carry over into community affairs and business.

The senate was the primary organizer of many school functions. Beginning in the fall, the first order of business was the sponsoring of class elections. Several dances were staged by the senate. A different kind of fund-raising activity was a hootenany which featured local talent.

A new service was offered. In the past the senate was responsible for the designing and publishing of the student directory. In addition to the directory, the senate put out a booklet that enumerated and described school-sponsored clubs.

Biannual Inductions Swell N.H.S. Membership

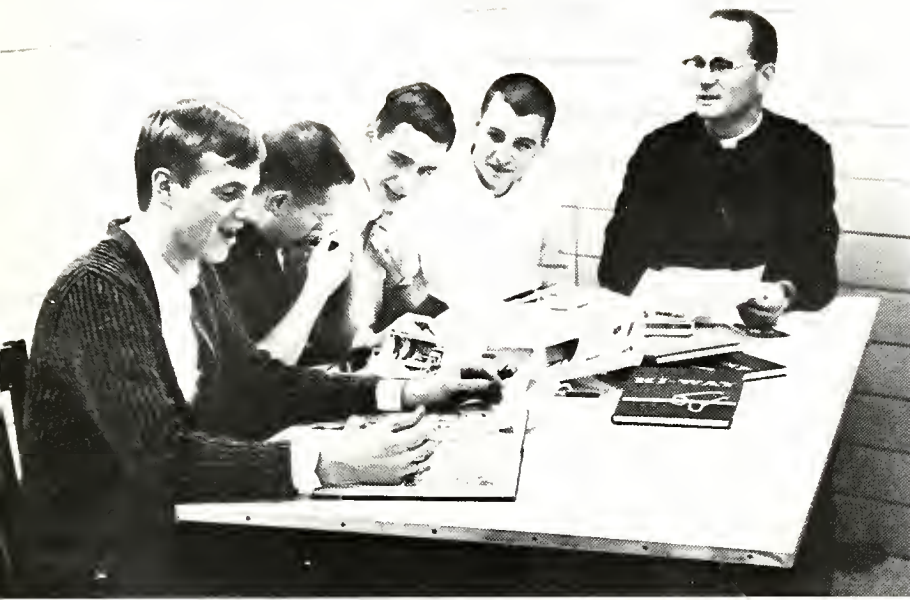

N.H.S. inductees give undivided attention to their guest speaker.

Membership in the National Honor Society is the greatest honor our School can give. Precious few are chosen, the number being restricted to the top fifteen percent of the junior and senior classes. A board of faculty members makes the choices on the basis of service, leadership, character, and scholarship.

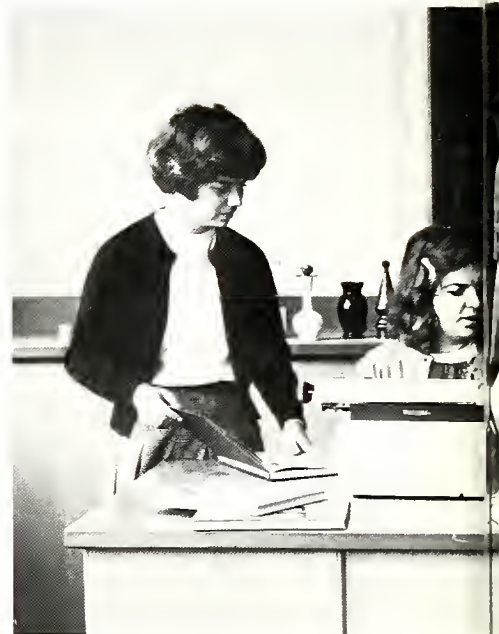

Two inductions a year are made, one in the fall, another in the spring. A most impressive ceremony is held at initiation of inductees.

This year the Girls' Chapter president was Janet Godersky, and Ken Sullivan headed the Boys' Chapter. Sister Peter Julian and Brother Brian Waldron were moderators.

'65 HI-WAY— Combination of Time and Talent

Over the years the HI-WAY has repeatedly earned "A" ratings from the N.Y.C.S., a national critical service; but the '64 book hit the top with an "A+". This is the highest score any book can receive and is given only rarely. It was only the second book in St. Joseph's history that won such an award. The last was the LIFE magazine imitator of 1957.

Despite the precedent of a successful format, the '65 HI-WAY launched out in a radical direction. The usual conservative cover gave way to one of symbolism. From the formal two-column look, which split each page into four sections, the form changed to three-columns. This allowed for more freedom in layout design and plan. Photos received a larger, more dramatic use.

These changes were brought about principally under the leadership of Jim Lloyd, editor-in-chief and Brother Anton, moderator.

Having some fun viewing a negative are members of the Outer Circle Vic Jagmin, Gregg Claeys, Gary Urgonski, and Don Berger.

Culling material for deadlines are reporters Barh Loebach, Kathy Jun, Mary Golichowski, Terry Wonisch, and Jonna Timmons.

Checking over sports photos for the next issue are Dave Demeter and Angie Baldoni.

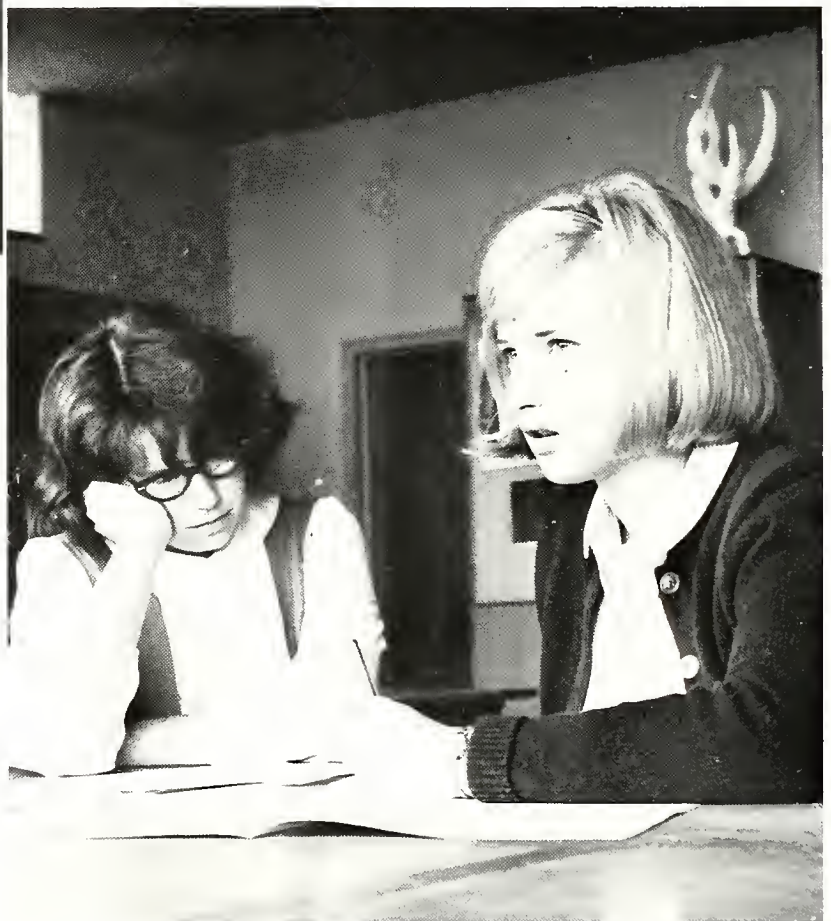

Big things happened this year in the tiny HI-LITE newsroom. The atmosphere and organization underwent a major change under the leadership of former Chicago Tribune reporter, Miss Diane Martin.

Professionalism was the key word, a smoothly functioning staff and a timely, interesting paper the aim. To set the policies for each issue, an Editorial Board of ten members discussed editorial ideas and organizational methods. Then ideas were faithfully executed by the regular staff of editors, reporters, and business managers.

The staff of fifty-two was headed by editor-in-chief Joan Sullivan and assistant Kathy Gallagher.

The changes effected were evident right from the beginning issue. Formerly those in charge of the HI-LITE had trouble finding enough stories to fill the pages. With the assistance of a newly formed "News Bureau", there was a dramatic turnabout. There was the luxury of trying to find space for all the news gathered.

From the State Championship on the gridiron to a winning season in baseball, the Indians have shown throughout the year the spirited drive necessary to produce a successful season. But it was not only the teams that made St. Joe great; it was also the enthusiasm of its fans demonstrated at every sports event. Flip the following pages and see the Athletic Indians on Review.

Fourth and three—St. Joe uses a spread against Central.

After defeating the 1963 State Champion Elkhart, the Indians vaulted into top position in the gridiron polls and stayed there ten consecutive weeks, rating the championship automatically.

St. Joe's march to the championship was a case of team effort. There was a depth of player talent, consistency, and intense desire to be Number 1! The exceptional coaching staff, headed by Wally Moore, made the team click.

Terry Smith, Rich Joo, Mike Luzny, Dave Badagnani, and Bruce Hardman powered a devastating ground attack. Power, however, was always leavened by the threat of the "bomb", usually Dave Smith to Jim Sniadecki. Dave, who scored 76 points, was the key player.

On defense Dan De Craene, Jim Sniadecki, Pat Lahey, Jim Cortier, and Dan Saracino were particularly effective. De Craene was top tackler with 76.

A looping pass is battled for by defensive ace Dan Saracino and a would-be Washington receiver.

During a timeout Coach Richard Hendricks and his players huddle to plot some defensive changes.

Sporting the tallest team in St. Joseph history and one of the tallest in Indiana this year, the Indians completed a successful basketball season of 13 wins and 7 losses.

Led by the shooting of Mark Hurtubise with a 16-point average, the rebounding of Ken Hass and Jim Sniadecki, and the backcourt work of Jack Matthys and Terry Smith, the Saints were very impressive during the latter part of the campaign.

Early in the season, with the team struggling to keep above .500, Coach Hendricks kept switching lineups, looking for the best combination.

An infectious school spirit ruled at our football and basketball assemblies. Because of the exceptional success of our teams this year, St. Joseph's cheerleaders had little trouble arousing enthusiasm.

The seniors opened the season on Sept. 18 with a rousing assembly prior to the Central game. Mr. Moore delivered a brief, inspiring speech, the first of a long and welcome series—for Coach Moore is a favorite speaker!

In the following weeks juniors, sophomores, and even freshmen sponsored assemblies. We say "even" for the frosh, because in reality their effort was the very first in the school's history for that class.

On Sept. 18 the seniors took charge of Football Homecoming before the Luers game, and the juniors headed a similar ceremony for basketball on Feb. 5.

At an assembly, master of ceremonies Ed Garvey tries in vain to locate the freshmen.

St. Joseph's cindermen enjoyed their finest season with a 7—3 record, plus victories at the Goshen and Penn relays. Under Coach Moore's direction and with the intense interest and inspired leadership of Coach Bucky Haag, the team developed quickly to become a real power in the area.

Our home track was worked into shape and the first meet ever at St. Joseph's, against Concord, was a rousing 84—25 success.

Most consistent winners all season long were Chris Nicolini and Alan Van Huffel in the shot, Ed Le Couteur in the high and low hurdles, and Dan Saracino in the mile-run. Alan set a school record with a put of 52' 2".

The first recipient of the Bernard Haag award for track was Dan Saracino. This new award is presented not only on the basis of ability, but also on sportsmanship, dedication, and character.

New Indian Coach Terry Rose guided his team to a respectable record of eleven victories and seven defeats.

The dominant feature of the '64 season was a one-two punch. Heavy hitting of such veterans as Joe Kernan, Tim Dunphy, Mike Luzny, and Bruce Hardman was coupled with the fine pitching of three-year veteran Dan Wiskotoni, Terry Green, and Dave Smith.

The Saints came within a whisker of winning the City Championship. In the tourney Central and St. Joe were matched in the deciding game. The Indians trailed until the seventh inning when they moved ahead by a point. Central scored the tying run in the last of the seventh, and the game remained deadlocked until the ninth when a Central walk and a triple into deep right field brought home the winning run.

In a blur of action Joe Kernan arrives at the plate ahead of the ball.

Intramurals— Source of Spirited Competition

Students not eligible for varsity teams have an opportunity to show off their skills in numerous indoor activities. Under director Neil McLaughlin, more students participated in intramurals than in any previous year.

Over forty teams, averaging eight members to a team, partook in the basketball program. Volleyball, attracting an unusually large membership, was second in popularity.

Gym classes taught students the art of tumbling and instructed them in the use of the side-horse and parallel bars.

Acquisition of new equipment allowed weight-lifting, boxing, and wrestling to round out the intramural program.

Coach-of-the-Year Wally Moore meets with three of his All-Staters: Dave Smith, Pat Lahey, and Jim Sniadecki. On the table are three State Championship trophies.

Successful Season Swells Number of Chevron Winners

The Monogram Club is comprised of St. Joseph's athletic elite. The thirty-seven members are the outstanding football, basketball, track, and baseball players who have won letters.

Officers—this year Bob Christin, president; Bruce Hardman, vice-president; Dan Saracino, secretary and Doug Breunlin, treasurer—and Coach Moore, moderator, decide on the policies of the club.

Functions of the club include ushering at basketball games, and sponsoring dances. This year a disciplinary board maintained strict control within the club. Any member who breached disciplinary rules lost his letter.

Assembly Recognizes Deserving Athletes

There are several awards assemblies, the one honoring the greatest number of athletes, however, is that following the football season.

Our coaching staff, headed by Mr. Wally Moore, presided. As Athletic Manager Mr. Cyril DeVleighter acted as master-of-ceremonies and presented the letters and other awards.

Twenty-five footballers received varsity letters, with Bob Christin, Bruce Hardman, Rich Joo, and Jim Sniadecki picking up their third. Jim Sniadecki, Dave Smith, and Pat Lahey were chosen All-State and have the right to wear an extra star on their sleeve.

Mr. John Lloyd presented the Kiwanis Award for the best all-around athlete and scholar to Bob Christin.

Frank Nemeth and Mike Kopinski, Mike Walsh and Tom Macri, Gene Policinski and Tom Sandusky—Varsity, "B", and freshman managers respectively—were treated to a letter and some most deserved applause.

"B" and Freshman squad members received certificates of merit.

Presenting the State Championship trophy is Mr. B. Golubski; Brother James receives it in the name of the team.

In a special assembly staged by the Senate to recognize our State Champs, Bob Christin receives an award. Ken Sullivan and Lynn Maier assist Brother James.

IN PERSONALITIES

Personalities, although unique in character and action, are the essence of St. Joe High. The administration that regulates, and the faculty that educates, are complemented by student cooperation in academics, athletics, and activities. These three groups foster the spirit of St. Joe's. This spirit was displayed and received and gained both city and state recognition. Truly, these people, the students, faculty, and administration are the lifeblood of the school.

Hard at work on his doctoral thesis is Superintendent Father Vrabely.

"Learning is not handed down or across a desk but leaps like fire from one mind to another." (Doris Gumback). Learning then can't be legislated; however legislation can create the atmosphere for learning. Good order and discipline can be the stepping stones to knowledge, and this is that thing that helps make St. Joseph's distinctive in South Bend: it has good order and discipline. These qualities are primarily the work of our good administration.

Although the administrative hierarchy is something like a hydra, it is well-co-ordinated and business-like. Father Vrabely, the Superintendent, represents the diocese. Under Father, forming the other two points of authority, are Brother James Linscott, Director of the Boys' Department; and Sister Mary of Good Counsel, Director of the Girls' Department.

From the unique pep assemblies down to the five semi-finalists and seventeen commended students in the National Merit Scholarship tests, seniors have left their imprint on everything they did. Artistic seniors continually had their paintings displayed in the lobby showcases, while experienced seniors put out the school publications, were at the head of clubs, and were given the highest place of honor at St. Joe through the National Honor Societies, the Monogram Club, et al.

Led by ambitious seniors, the football team captured state-wide acclaim by winning the football championship. Baseball, track, and basketball teams, made up primarily of seniors, performed impressively.

Upperclassmen Experience Year of Leadership

The 275 members of the Junior Class left a lasting impression on the 1964-65 school year in the fields of academics, activities, and athletics.

In academics Juniors took the PSAT and National Merit Scholarship Test. The remarkably high scores some received, and the number of Scholastic Honor certificate winners, spoke well for Junior scholarship.

In activities the Juniors sponsored many dances including the perennial prom. An assembly with Notre Dame's All-American, Jack Snow, as guest speaker, was their greatest achievement.

In athletics, teams were strengthened by the placement of Juniors in key positions. Their importance was realized with Pat Lahey being selected to the All-State football team.

Junior Class sponsors Brother Francis Rotsaert and Sister Marie Jeanne meet in the library to talk over plans for an assembly.

Sophomores Anticipate Upperclassmen Status

Sophomores are no longer able to use the naive alibis they used as Freshmen when they broke a regulation. They started to prove their growing maturity by sponsoring dances and assemblies.

They were able to "come out of their shell" by being able to participate in the winter formal and proms.

"B" teams and the varsity teams were enhanced by Sophomore athletes, preparing for their future role as leaders of sports activities.

Learning was a major function of the Sophomore class, and they responded to this responsibility by placing many members of the class on the honor roll and numerous representatives at Honor Night.

Meeting briefly on the stairs are Sophomore Class Moderators Mrs. Evalyn Millott and Brother John Kavanaugh.

vice-presidents; Mike Slott and Cathi Elias, secretaries. Seated is Ed Gehring, photographer.

Smallest Class Sets High Goals

After threading their way through "unchartered corridors" and deciphering seemingly endless "traffic" signs, the incoming freshmen finally settled down to the schedule of high school life.

The most difficult phase was concerned with adapting to a new and higher caliber of education. Freshmen were introduced to languages, math, and social studies.

Besides participation in many school functions, freshmen also sponsored certain activities of their own. Early in the year, freshmen presented the "Martian Hop", followed by their annual skating party in the winter.

Prayers, retreats, and participation in the Mass filled out the religious aspects of freshman life.

Freshman Class Moderators are Brother Thomas Matthes and Sister Miriam Robert.

Making the most of a poor place to sit, Barbara Chrzan catches up on some homework.

Indians on Review

The review of the school year 1964-65 is now complete.

The events of which it is composed can never recur, the way they occurred then. The events recalled in this annual are special events: the time Coach Moore was carried off the field after the Penn game, the time the last football ratings came out and we maintained our Number One position.

The building, the classrooms, the teachers, and even the students are a little different now than when they were portrayed in this book . . . when they were portrayed as INDIANS ON REVIEW.
